

Art | Downtown

“SIRENS”

Photograph Courtesy Team Gallery

If strong female leads in British police procedurals are your idea of binge-worthy escapism (“Prime Suspect” and “Broadchurch,” we’re looking at you), add Dawn Mellor’s show “Sirens,” at the Team gallery, in SoHo, to your must-see list. The London-based painter toys with the double entendre of her series’ title—police-car sirens and mythic damsels at sea—by portraying her characters, all of whom are drawn from film and TV, in water, to Surrealist effect.—Andrea K. Scott